About CMAI

The Christian Medical Association of India (CMAI), is a registered, national level NGO. It has a total membership of over 10000 health professionals and a membership network of more than 330 health care institutions including five medical colleges. CMAI was set up in 1905. It has been playing a strategic role to influence health policies in India and is dedicated to promoting health and social justice to all, irrespective of religion, language or socio-economic status.

CMAI has been promoting quality education since the early 1900s. It accredits and provides training in various fields including nursing, allied health, hospital administration, chaplaincy and medical practice. It is authorised by the Indian Nursing Council to accredit ANM, GNM and post Diploma courses across the country. Diploma courses in several allied health professional courses such as Medical Laboratory Technology and Radiology Technology are also accredited by CMAI.

Workshops are regularly conducted for the CMAI network on different issues such as emergency medicine, legal issues, nursing, hospital administration, NABH, NABL etc.

"I recommend this course to any professional in the medical field for a deeper understanding of the 'why' behind medical and hospital practices; this would equip healthcare workers become better stewards for the healing commission of Christ"
